President’s Message

I recently came to the realization that I have been retired for eight years. The time has passed so quickly! Joining the UCLA Retirees Association was one of the best decisions I made in helping me with my transition to retirement. I have had the opportunity to explore various interests, reconnect with friends and former colleagues, and build new friendships. But the Association does so much more for all of us than may seem evident in the programs and interest groups that it sponsors.

As the incoming President, I have been reflecting on the progress the Association has made under the leadership of Past President Rod Rose, and thinking about future plans. Among the more significant achievements during Rod’s tenure are the implementation of an automated membership management system (including the ability to use a credit card or PayPal for membership dues and events); the increased visibility of the Association through meetings with the Board of Directors and various campus administrators, which will increase opportunities for advocacy and volunteerism; and the realization of our $50,000 fundraising goal to establish an endowment for annual staff development awards.

In addition, during the past year, UCLARA Board members have participated with the Council of UC Retiree Associations (CUCRA) in advocating for continuation of retiree health insurance benefits. The Retiree Health Benefits Working Group that was formed last winter to address this issue recently issued its preliminary report to President Janet Napolitano and she has indicated her support for most of the group’s recommendations.

The result is no significant changes to the retiree health benefit in 2019, and an agreement to have the Working Group continue its charter through that year. (See article to the right.) Thanks to all of you who took the time to email, phone, or send snail mail comments to The Regents and to our representatives on this Group. The Association Board will be holding a Strategic Planning Session in August to outline goals for the upcoming year. Continued advocacy initiatives on behalf of retirees and initiatives to further increase the Association’s visibility within the University and the campus will be on that list, among other concerns.

I am also pleased to report that our Program Committee and Interest Group Committee Chairs are hard at work planning activities and programs for the upcoming year. We are soliciting new committee members for several of the Board standing committees (see article on next page). If you are interested in getting more involved in the Association, this is a great way to do so.

I especially want to welcome recent retirees. We look forward to having you join us!

Sue Abeles

Health Benefits Unchanged for Now

The Working Group considering possible changes to retiree medical benefits and their costs has issued its preliminary report to UC President Janet Napolitano, and for now, there are no significant changes.

The group was charged with exploring potential strategies and developing options for UC leaders to consider in ensuring the long-term viability of the retiree health benefits program.

Working in close consultation with faculty, staff and retiree groups across the system, the Working Group held meetings involving extensive research and discussion on this complex topic. Its preliminary report indicates that no significant changes in UC’s contribution levels or plan design are anticipated for 2019, but that the Working Group should continue its charter. The one exception is a recommendation to gradually reduce the contributions for those who are non-Medicare over 65 starting in 2019 to bring them more in line with Medicare-eligible retirees.

“I would like to thank the Working Group for their continued service to the University,” Napolitano said. “I am committed to an iterative process and to sharing proposed changes to the retiree health benefits program with the broader UC community.”

Keeping Up with the Board

With the July 1 start of the new fiscal/academic year, the UCLA Retirees Association is pleased to announce several changes to its Board of Directors.

First, we are happy to welcome two “newbies” to the Board this year. Michael Heafey, a member of the Program Committee, will now serve as Co-Chair of that committee with Sally Stahl. Michael, a UCLA alumnus, is well-suited to his new position, having retired in 2015 from Event Management after a 37-year career. He was involved in major events at Royce Hall and the Anderson School, and now volunteers at the Office of Emergency Management and other venues.

And Mary Miller, our new Historian, had taught middle school for nearly 40 years before moving to the UCLA School of Education’s Center X, where she spent 10 years as co-director of the History-Geography Project, providing professional development for K-12 teachers. She loved both her careers but is also relishing her retirement since 2014 and the opportunity for new involvements at the university she decided to attend as an 11-year-old.

In other changes, our new President is Sue Abeles, who has been serving as Vice President for the past two years. Sue is extremely bright and committed to furthering the goals of the Association, and we are delighted to have her at the helm. Past President John Dahl has agreed to serve as Vice President for the upcoming year.

Nancy Varat, former newsletter editor who has been chairing the Arts & Crafts Exhibit, will now be Recording Secretary while Elizabeth Juncosa moves into the Member-at-Large spot, and Judith Tuch leaves the Program Committee in good hands to take over the Arts & Crafts Exhibit. With her art background, she’s a natural!

In addition, Mary Ann Sherritt, former Hospitality Chair, is the new Corresponding Secretary, and outgoing President Rod Rose becomes chair of the Nominating Committee.

We have great confidence in our new Board of Directors and look forward to a year of progress and service to UCLA retirees. For a complete list of the new positions, see page 5.

Our Committees Need You!

Have you ever thought of lending your talents to work with one of the Retirees Association’s standing committees?

Volunteering for a committee is one of the most satisfying – and enjoyable – things you can do. There’s not a big time commitment involved, and you get to work with a small group of colleagues to expand the services and activities that we offer to members.

Among the committees that are looking for additional members at present are the Program Committee, which schedules events and community tours; the Membership Marketing Committee, which explores ways to increase membership; and the Campus and Community Relations Committee, which strengthens connections between the University and the community.

If you are interested, please contact the chair of the appropriate committee:

Program Committee: Sally Stahl, stahlsally@gmail.com
Membership Marketing: John Dahl, jdahl@ucla.edu
Campus and Community Relations: Al Aubin, aaubin@ucla.edu

Please join us!

Before You Know It!

August, September, October, November — Yes, mark the date and place now, Thursday, November 15, California Room, Faculty Center, the 14th Annual UCLA Arts & Crafts Exhibit! Tell your colleagues, friends, and family to join us at this special event, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. New this year are door prizes donated by the exhibitors, which will be given away throughout the Exhibit.

Note: We are looking for ceramists and volunteers to help with the exhibit. If you are interested in either, please contact me at judithtuch@sbcglobal.net.

Judith Tuch, Exhibit Chair

News from the ERRC

Fidelity Guidance Consultations

Retirees, emeriti and active employees can ask questions about retirement accounts remaining with the UC Retirement System or review financial planning for specific situations by meeting Fidelity Retirement Planner Andrew Fung, CRPC at the ERRC. To make an appointment, email Andrew Fung directly at Andrew.Fung@fidelity.com.

Emeriti/Retiree Privileges

As a reminder, the ERRC coordinates a variety of retiree privileges including parking and BruinCards and offers complimentary notary services by appointment for retirees and their spouses/partners. Contact the ERRC at 310-825-7456 for details.
Since arriving at UCLA in 2007, Carol Block, wife of Chancellor Gene Block, has carved for herself a sweet spot in the life of the University, sharing her love of learning, music and community. The events that she organizes and hosts have made a welcome impact on campus life.

Case in point: the spring recital that she hosted especially for UCLA staff retirees on May 22. Held at the Chancellor’s Residence on campus, the event drew an audience of about 60 to enjoy a violin concert by UCLA graduate student Priyanka Venkatesh, accompanied on piano by Dr. James Lent (see photo at right). Mrs. Block remarked that she appreciates “the opportunity to hear classical music in an intimate setting,” such as the Residence. She invites various groups of staff to these salons – in fact, she herself is considered a staff member by virtue of her position as Associate of the Chancellor.

Some months ago, Mrs. Block sat down for an interview with UCLA Magazine. Following are excerpts from that interview.

Early on, you began hosting recitals featuring UCLA music students. What drew you to that?

I love music — I’ve studied piano and oboe, and I still enjoy playing the piano. I wanted to highlight UCLA’s incredible music programs and also open up the residence to more visitors, especially UCLA staff. I think it’s important to engage staff and to show that we appreciate the key role they play in the University’s excellence.

How are the recitals organized?

The residence managers work with the Herb Alpert School of Music, whose students apply to perform. We invite a different group of staff to each event. Over the years, we’ve had a wide range of programming, and I have found all the students to be impressive. Recently, we had an undergraduate quintet perform that I could easily imagine performing at Disney Hall — they were that good! One added benefit of planning recitals is that I’ve gotten to know many of the music faculty personally.

And you make refreshments yourself?

For the reception after each recital, I usually try to bake something. I like to add a personal touch. Also, while the staff are at the Residence, I encourage them to explore the gardens and the first floor of the house, where there is rotating art by students and permanent works from the Hammer and Fowler museums.

Tell us about the Women’s Leadership Luncheons that you host.

Twice a year, I bring together women staff and faculty who occupy leadership positions on campus. I invite leaders from the University or the community to speak. It’s a learning and networking opportunity.

What are some of the other things you do?

I volunteer at the Los Angeles Food Bank along with staff from UCLA. Recently, I volunteered at the Horace Mann UCLA Community School. And, occasionally, we gather up 40 or 50 staff members for a local outing in L.A. We’ve toured Chinatown, Downtown L.A., and Union Station. On other trips, we’ve explored the remnants of the old Red Line trolley, the port of San Pedro and the historical mural, “The Great Wall,” in the San Fernando Valley.

You worked for many years in a microbiology lab in Virginia. Are you continuing that work here?

Yes, but I work only one day a month, for four to six hours. My specialty is mycology — the study of fungi. Not many people have experience in this field so when I came to UCLA, they asked me to help and to train new mycologists.

What does the future hold for you?

Gene and I can’t believe we’ve been here 10 years. We’ve both enjoyed it so much. I’m in no rush to leave!

Claudia Luther, UCLA Magazine
Save the Date!

We’ve been busy planning all sorts of activities for you to enjoy with your fellow retirees. Look for invitations in the coming months, and let us know your ideas for future programs. Contact Sally Stahl at stahlsally@gmail.com.

October 9: Visit the Adamson House and Malibu Lagoon Museum, and get refreshed at the Marmalade Café.

Loving Lotusland

Lotusland has been recognized as one of the Top 10 Best Gardens in the world. The 37-acre estate in Montecito brought the dream of Madame Ganna Walska, a Polish opera singer and socialite, to life.

On July 14, some 40 UCLA Retirees Association members traveled by bus to Lotusland, with a stop for lunch in Carpenteria. Knowledgeable docents led small groups on a two-hour tour of the estate. The water lilies were in bloom and extraordinary vistas lay around every corner. Favorites included the Aloe Garden with its cascading fountains, the Blue Garden with silvery blue-gray foliage, and the Horticultural Clock.

Our thanks to Barbara Wold for facilitating this delightful day trip.

Picnic in the Garden

Amidst the dreary days of May Gray and June Gloom, Saturday June 2 turned out to be a beautiful, sun-splashed day – just perfect for the Retiree/Emeriti Picnic at the Mildred E. Mathias Botanical Garden on campus.

Co-sponsored by the Emeriti/Retirees Relations Center, the UCLA Retirees Association and the UCLA Emeriti Association, the event drew a happy group of nearly 100 retirees and emeriti ready to relax and enjoy. They partook of a menu of delicious sandwiches and salads from Mendocino Farms and cookies from Belmont Village, fun activities, and information/education and raffle prizes from ERRC partners Belmont Village Senior Living, Fidelity Investments, UCLA Travel, University Credit Union, and UC Health Plan carriers Kaiser, Health Net and Anthem. Belmont Village provided convenient courtesy shuttles from the parking lot, and garden tours were offered.

The Botanical Garden was established along with the campus in 1929. Used mainly as a teaching garden, it encompasses 7.5 acres of mature plants and trees, including many unusual species, all accessible to the public. If you missed this opportunity to visit, free tours are available the first Saturday of each month at 1 p.m.

Staff Scholarship Winners Announced

When you were on staff, wouldn’t you have appreciated the opportunity to attend conferences or take educational courses to further your career? Saira Almeida, Emily Knox, Cindy Oshiro, and Marina Soliman are fortunate enough to have that opportunity – they are the 2018-19 recipients of the UCLA Retirees Association’s Staff Development Scholarships.

UCLARA created these scholarships to support current staff, and an endowment fund to ensure they continue into the future.

We are very proud to be able to offer this worthwhile program. To those of you who have already given, please accept our deepest appreciation. For everyone else, won’t you join in this effort? Gifts of any size are very much appreciated. Please consider making a tax-deductible contribution by mailing your check, payable to The UCLA Foundation M-267/820130, to:

UCLA Foundation, P.O. Box 7145, Pasadena, CA 91109-9903

Thank you so much for your support!

Saira Almeida: Financial Business Partner, Office of the Dean, David Geffen School of Medicine

Saira will apply the scholarship toward taking classes to improve her technical skills in Excel, which is a major component of her current position. She hopes to become more efficient and increase productivity in her work.

Emily Knox: Senior Art Director, UCLA Athletics

Emily designs athletic facilities on campus and is interested in making her projects for the University more green.

She will take the course, Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design, to help give her a greater part in pushing the new green design solutions.

Cindy Oshiro: Human Resources Specialist, Academic Personnel Office, School of Dentistry

This scholarship will help Cindy to further her skills by obtaining the Professional in Human Resources certificate from the HR Certification Institute. The certificate will allow her to better serve faculty, staff and students, and help her gain confidence in her profession.

Marina Soliman: Senior Food Service Worker, Dining Services

Marina is working on her Bachelor’s degree in Accounting while working at the University and is grateful that the scholarship will enable her to take a UCLA Extension class in Principles of Accounting. Her goal is to obtain an accounting position on campus.
